- User can download and print the page

How to Page:

- Instructions + links to online resources

Theme

My website/webapp is going to be an online journaling app. I enjoy journaling and tracking for my own goals however, always carrying a physical journal is not always practical, so this tool would be useful. I am currently debating on how to persist the data but a quick way to get up and running would be to use Airtable as a database or stringify the data and store it in the localstore until I can build a longterm solution.
